

THE DAILY BULLETIN

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 9, 1884.

The Bath County fair begins at Sharpsburg the first week in August.

The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church is in session at Philadelphia.

The most valuable man to head the Republican ticket, according to General Grant, is Logan.

The new Democratic paper to be issued at Frankfort, August 2, by the Public Printer, will be edited by Dr. J. D. Woods and Hon. George V. Triplett.

This petition of Thos. J. Cornelson for a rehearing in the case of Howard vs. Cornelson has been overruled by the Superior Court; and Judge Bowden, who delivered the opinion, is patiently waiting for his cowhiding.

The Legislature has appropriated $1,000 for the removal of the remains of Dr. John L. Cook and his wife, Mrs. Anna B. Cook, to the city of Frankfort. The bill provides for the funeral and the erection of a monument.

A BILL has again been introduced in the Senate to retire General Grant with the rank and pay of General. It is thought that sympathy for him on account of the recent loss of $100,000 in Wall street will put the bill through.

HON. JUDAH P. BENJAMIN died at Paris, France, on the 7th inst. He was a distinguished lawyer, and, at one time, a member of the Confederate Cabinet. His death was the result of an injury received by an accident several years ago.

The Massachusetts Prohibition State Convention elected delegates to the National Convention at Pittsburg, and adopted resolutions which declared for the immediate suppression of the liquor traffic by constitutional and statutory measures, and against legalizing an acknowledged evil.

The electoral ticket to be voted for by the Democracy at the next november election, is as follows:

At Large—W. B. Fleming, of Jefferson, and Ben. S. Robbins, of Oldham.
First District—Ray Boyd, of McCracken.
Second District—Cromwell Adair, of Union.
Third District—John J. Rhea, of Logan.
Fourth District—Samuel Berry, of Marion.
Fifth District—J. P. Bulitt, Jr., of Jefferson.
Sixth District—L. T. Applegate, of Pendleton.
Seventh District—Ira Julian, of Franklin.
Eighth District—G. N. Robinson, of Shelby.
Ninth District—S. S. Savage, of Boyd.
Tenth District—J. P. Slayer, of Morgan.
Eleventh District—Rollin Hunt, of Metcalfe.

The declaration in the platform of the Kentucky Democracy that the present excessive tariff "burdens the people with excessive war taxes in time of peace and is a masterpiece of injustice, inequality and false pretense," expresses the views which all but the monopolists and the office holders of the country entertain. The assertion that all taxation, as the constitution requires shall be for revenue exclusively, and that no more revenue should be collected than is necessary to meet the expenses and obligations of the government, economically administered, has a genuine ring to it, and is an indication of the breaking up of old methods and a return to better things.

A Woman Gambler.

From an Eagle-City Idaho Letter.
"What man has done man may do" has long been a favorite maxim of the moralists and the copy books, but it is reserved for the philosophy of the mining camp to demonstrate that "what man has done woman may do also." Amid the general din of the saloon, and rising above the general confusion, the clink of glasses against bottles and the tinkling sound of ivory chips, may be heard the words: "Queen high," "pair kings," "bets two beans" and the like, uttered in a soft but penetrating voice, which attracts one on entering the door. Making my way to a corner of the room, and elbowing a path cautiously through a pack of men, I saw a remarkable sight. Before one of the ordinary poker-tables sat a woman of no ordinary beauty. The traces of refinement had not yet been obliterated by coarse associations and reckless dissipation. She was dressed in a tight-fitting gown, fitting about the bust like the waist of a riding habit, and adorned with a double row of staring gilt buttons. On her head was a jaunty jockey cap of blue, but its little visor shading a face whose delicate lines and marked individuality would in any other place have secured for its possessor immediate notice as a cultivated, intellectual power. Yet there she sat, dealing cards with a graceful ease born evidently of long practice in similar scenes. Careless of the rough talk and ribald jokes of the men, the female gambler dealt the cards, raked in the chips, paid losses, replied to the sallies of the men and attended to business with a devilish carelessness and calmness which was simply horrible. A more painful sight I never saw, for there was a refinement of wickedness about the scene which robbed it of the vulgarity of the slums and invested that woman in the corner of a mining-camp gambling house with a horror which was simply satanic.

"Shine yer butes," shouted a boot-black yesterday to an old citizen on Main street. The man addressed made no reply. "Shine em up? Only five cents." Still no reply, but a gaze into vacancy. The bootblack looked at his victim a moment, to make sure he was alive, then said in a disgusted tone: "S-a-y, mister, ef yer can't tork, vy jess make signs will yer?"—Bradford Sunday Mail.

A NEW TICHBORNE CASE.

Contending for the Retrahip of a $300,000 Property in St. Paul.

MONTREAL, May 9.—In the rural parish of St. Philippe, a few miles west of this city on the St. Lawrence, a legal investigation has been in progress for some days under a United States Court Commission from St. Paul, Minn., which is exciting much interest from its resemblance to the great Tichborne suit in England. The question at issue relates to the identity of Isaac Desnoyers, who has entered a suit in St. Paul to recover 200 acres of land worth $300,000 in the immediate vicinity of that city, to which the claimant alleges he is the legal heir. The history of the case is embraced in the following synopsis of the evidence produced before the commission:

In 1834 Etienne Desnoyers, son of a habitant residing in St. Philippe, emigrated to the Eastern States, and after remaining there a few years gravitated to the West, making his future home at St. Paul on two hundred acres of land which he purchased. With the advance of population in St. Paul the estate became valuable, and at the time of his death, six months ago, he had realized $300,000 on the sale of only a portion of it.

Deceased had three sisters living with him and they claimed the estate after his death. They also disposed of the balance of the land for $100,000.

There was no dispute raised as to their title to the inheritance until a few months ago, when Isaac Desnoyers arrived at St. Philippe from Nebraska, after twenty-six years absence, and immediately had an action entered in St. Paul to recover the estate from the parties in possession on the ground that he is the son and heir of the late Etienne Desnoyers. His statement regarding his history is to the effect that his alleged father married in Troy in 1836, and that his wife, claimant's mother, died there a year after the child's birth.

The father, having made up his mind to try his fortune in the West, sent his son to a relative in St. Philippe named Antoine Desnoyers to be brought up. After the child arrived the latter had him baptized by the parish cure as his own offspring. The boy grew up and was always known as Antoine's son. When he was seventeen years of age Etienne Desnoyers wrote from St. Paul for the lad to be sent to him. He went there and remained five years with his alleged parent and then struck out for Nebraska on his own account, from which he has returned to claim his alleged natural and lawful rights.

A large number of local witnesses have given their evidence, but under the belief that the claimant is Antoine Desnoyers' son. The baptismal register as kept by the priest, who is now dead, was produced, and it is therein stated that Isaac Desnoyers was the lawful issue of Antoine and Marie Desnoyers, his wife. This old couple, who brought up the claimant, are alive still, but their mental powers are so impaired by age that they are incapacitated from giving evidence. It is a singular case, and opinions are divided as to whether the claimant is another Arthur Orton like the one now nearing the end of his ten years' imprisonment in England.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

House.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—On motion of Mr. Jorshelmer (N. Y.) the Senate joint resolution for the celebration of the completion of the Washington Monument was taken up and passed. It provides for the ceremonies at the dedication of a procession reaching from the monument to the capitol and an oration February 22, 1885, in the hall of the House of Representatives by Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, a salutes of 100 guns from its Navy yard, by the artillery in quarters, and appropriates $2,500 to be expended by the Committee of Arrangements.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the New Orleans Centennial Cotton Exposition Bill with Dorsheimer (N. Y.) in the Chair.

Mysterious Shooting Affair.

CHICAGO, May 9.—A. F. McMillan is head clerk at the Union Foundry Works in Pullman, a suburb of this city. Yesterday he was met on the street by Miss Libbie Morgan, who told him her mother wanted to see him. He went to the house as requested and was received pleasantly. While sitting there Miss Morgan's sister, Mrs. Atwood, and her husband entered. The latter carried a shot-gun, and without warning discharged it at McMillan, inflicting a probably fatal wound. Atwood fled, but was soon arrested. Atwood's home is in Buffalo. The motive of the shooting is a mystery. Atwood refuses to explain, but intimates that McMillan insulted Miss Morgan. This she denies. All the evidence shows the shooting was deliberately planned.

The Treacherous Mexicans.

EL PASO, Tex., May 9.—There was a bad smash-up on the Mexican Central Tuesday above Central Blow, Hua Juquilla. The train arrived at noon yesterday. The wreck was caused by an unknown person misplacing a switch. Nine loaded stone cars stood on a side track, and into them the train was precipitated, demolishing the engine and baggage car. Several persons were injured, but none killed. In a few moments after the accident, one of the passengers says nearly seventy-five Mexicans appeared on horseback, asking for work.

Trouble Apprehended.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 9.—The fact that the Dominion Government has shipped a large quantity of ammunition to Winnipeg has given rise to several sensational rumors regarding the possibility of trouble in the Northwest should the members of the Manitoba Government, now on their way to Ottawa, fail in their mission to have the existing evils for which the Dominion Government is responsible remedied.

Alleged Murderer Acquitted.

DENVER, Col., May 9.—Last winter Oliver Johnson, Haller shot his wife and her alleged paramour, named Morris. The trial of Haller has been in progress here for the last sixteen days, and is one of the most memorable in the history of this State. Yesterday the case was given to the jury, and after fifteen minutes' deliberation a verdict of acquittal was rendered.

This report that the King of the Belgians will dispatch Stanley with an expedition from Congo to aid Gordon in retreating from Khartoum is untrue.

A Neat and New Trick.

A stylish-looking young man, with a light spring overcoat carried jauntily on his arm, a silver-headed cane and a blonde moustache, was shown to a seat beside a lady in a fashionable Walnut street church, Philadelphia, on Sunday. Upon rising during the sermon the young lady heard a dime drop on the floor. Apparently it came from the folds of her dress and, as the young man's head was averted, she was obliged to pick it up herself. She took out her purse, placed the money in it and returned it to a pocket in the skirt of her dress.

A few minutes later the young man, with apology in his movements, left the church. When the collection plate came the lady discovered that her pocket book was gone. In it was a $20 bill, some loose change and several Union line horse car tickets.

"That's a new trick," said Detective McCarty last evening, "that the pick-pockets have resorted to for the purpose of finding out where a woman carries her pocket book, and the ten-cent-piece dodge will catch a good many."
